

the Educational Research Institute Educational Research. In the period between 2001 and 2005, he also participated in the basic project Contemporary Approaches to Motivation and Competition in Self-Concept Models: Cross-Cultural Study. He was a member of the Slovene Sociological Association, the Slovene Anthropological Society, the European Anthropological Association and EASA, as well as member of the editorial board of the scientific journal School Field / Šolsko polje.

Taja Kramberger

Dr. Taja Kramberger, docentka in znanstvena raziskovalka, zaposlena na projektu Antropološki vidiki neformalnega pridobivanja znanja (2011–2014) na Pedagoškem inštitutu v Ljubljani. Objavila je 3 znanstvene monografije, vrsto znanstvenih člankov in drugih besedil (esejev, spremnih besed, prevodov temeljnih člankov). Med 2001 in 2011 je bila odgovorna urednica antropološke revije Monitor ZSA. Je prejemnica več štipendij v Parizu in Budimpešti. Med njena raziskovalna področja sodijo izbrane teme iz zgodovine in zgodovinske antropologije 18.–20. stoletja.

Taja Kramberger, PhD, teaching assistant and researcher, employed on the project Anthropological Aspects of Non-Formal Acquisition of Knowledge at the Educational Research Institute in Ljubljana. She has published 3 monographs, several articles and other texts (essays, introductions, translations of fundamental texts). Between 2001 and 2011 she was Editor-in-Chief of the anthropological journal Monitor ZSA. She has been a recipient of many fellowships in Paris and Budapest. Her research interests include selected themes from history and historical anthropology in the period from the 18th to 20th century.

Tadej Vidmar

Dr. Tadej Vidmar, izredni profesor za področje zgodovine pedagogike in šolstva ter primerjalno pedagogiko, zaposlen na Oddelku za pedagogiko in andragogiko Filozofske fakultete Univerze v Ljubljani.

Poklicno in znanstveno se ukvarja z zgodovino vzgoje in izobraževanja ter s primerjavami na področju šolstva ter vzgoje in izobraževanja. S teh področij je objavil več znanstvenih in strokovnih bibliografskih enot.

Tadej Vidmar, PhD, associate professor of the history of education and comparative pedagogy, works at the Department of Educational Sciences of the Faculty of Arts, University of Ljubljana.

Professionally and scientifically he is engaged in the history of education and in comparisons in the field of education and schooling; he has published many scientific and professional bibliographic units.